PRESIDENTS MESSAGE by Maureen Henderson

Summer is definitely here! With these 100+ degree days, perhaps you have been getting up at the crack of dawn to ride your horse, like I do, to beat the heat. Or, maybe you are an evening rider, getting your time in the saddle after the sun goes down. Whichever you happen to be, I ran across an article with 10 Hot Weather Horse Care Tips by the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine. Here is the link to the article in the event you are interested in learning more about horse management during our hot summer months. <http://www.thehorse.com/articles/29338/10-hot-weather-horse-care-tips>.

On Sunday, August 21, we will be holding an Obstacle Day. Our organizers will be hauling out obstacles, normally locked in our shed, into the arena so you and your fellow LBHA members can have a play day learning how to navigate them. Bring your horse, and a friend with a horse, to join us for this fun event. We will be starting at 8:30 am and going until about 11 am.

If you haven't viewed our schedule of events, please note that we have a new event this year. We will be holding a Tack Swap at the Arena on Sunday, September 25. See our website for details. In the meantime, just before this, we will be holding a Board/General Membership meeting on Wednesday, September 21 at Round Table in Loomis. We are also gearing up for our Fall horse show and need volunteers to help out with that on October 8 and 9, so hopefully, many of you will be able to help with that. It is a lot of work for the people putting the show together and we really do appreciate your help. Hope to see you at the next meeting.

TRAYLOR RANCH NATURE RESERVE

On July 23 we had our 5th workday of the year. We had a normal turnout for July. Most of the work revolved around trimming blackberries, filling pot holes and mowing. The nature preserve is looking mighty fine. And for those berry pickers out there, and you know who you are, there are a few areas where you can still pick blackberries but sorry to say that is coming to an end.

A big thank you to all the volunteers, Jennifer Wright, Mary Westfall, Jim Groeser, Clelia Jocoy, Craig Smith and yours truly of course. And welcome to two new recruits, Trish Brown and Eileen Graves who also recently rejoined LBHA, thank you for coming out.

Please note our workdays are the 4th Saturday of the month. The next workday is planned for August 27. Mark your calendar now.

If you have any questions, don't hesitate reaching out to me.

Hot Weather and Hydration Wendy Krebs, DVM

Hot summer weather has definitely arrived. With it comes increased risk of dehydration not only to yourself, but to your horse as well. Dehydration and electrolyte imbalances can lead to colic, kidney problems, irregular heart beat, laminitis and other problems, so it's important to keep your horse hydrated to avoid these sequelae. In some ways, it is remarkable how resilient horses are to the negative effects of dehydration. This is because horses have the benefit of a fluid reserve in their intestinal contents. It is estimated, for example, that a horse carries up to 90 liters of water mixed in with the digesting hay in their large intestine. This is both a blessing and a curse, because while it provides an emergency fluid source to keep the blood volume normalized despite fluid losses, the intestinal contents are thereby dehydrated, which leads to intestinal impactions. Electrolyte depletion combined with fluid depletion can also lead to ileus, which is decreased intestinal motility that can result in severe small intestinal distention and colic.

Fluid and Electrolyte Losses

Horses perspire copiously during exercise, and can have losses of as much as 15-20 liters (1 liter = 0.26 gal) per hour during hot weather. One study of endurance horses shows that by the 25 mile mark, they lost an average of 19 liters, and by the 50 mile mark they have lost 38 liters. Sweat consists of not only fluid, but also large amounts of sodium, chloride, and potassium. Therefore, to replace what is lost with sweat, horses need to consume fairly large quantities of both water and these electrolytes. Many horses are "good drinkers" and will consume water when it's offered both during and post-exercise. However, don't let this give you a false sense of security; it's important to note that horses do not become thirsty until they are approximately 2- 5% dehydrated. And, at as little as 2% dehydration, active heat dissipation by exercising horses is decreased, so they will tend to overheat more readily, compounding their already compromised hydration status.

Degrees of Dehydration

How do you gauge your horse's level of hydration? As a general rule of thumb, a horse is considered mildly dehydrated when they are 5-6% dehydrated, and have lost 20-30 liters; moderately dehydrated at 7-9 % dehydration, and have lost 30-40 liters; and severely dehydrated at 9%, when they have lost >40 liters. Signs of mild dehydration are tacky (slightly dry) mucus membranes, and mild skin tenting when it is pinched. At moderate levels of dehydration, mucus membranes are dry, eyes are somewhat sunken, and horses act depressed. Severe dehydration results in cold extremities, and recumbency (lying down, unwilling to move).

Prevention and Treatment of Dehydration

Pre-exercise

Results of several studies indicate that in high-temperature situations, horses that are hyperhydrated before competition outperform horses that are rehydrated either during or after the exercise. Horses will not voluntarily hyperhydrate themselves, but this effect can be achieved by administering electrolytes or plain salt pre-exercise. Increased blood levels of these electrolytes stimulate thirst, so horses essentially stock up on water before starting exercise. Pre-exercise electrolytes can be administered as a paste, or as a powder mixed in grain. In general, it is very difficult to over do electrolyte supplementation. Horses will lose far more electrolytes via sweating than can be reasonably replaced by consumption.

Mid-exercise

During exercise, many horses will drink salty water preferentially since they are sodium-depleted, so it's a good idea to offer both plain water and water with 2 tablespoons salt per gallon. Consumption of salty water leads to better water retention than consumption of plain water. The next best option is administration of salt paste or electrolyte paste orally with a syringe. Offering salt blocks alone are better than nothing, but do not result in as much sodium consumption as salty water.

Post-exercise

Electrolyte supplementation is much less valuable once horses are depleted, so this scenario should be avoided if possible. Ironically, horses that are severely dehydrated do not absorb electrolytes well orally, as their gastrointestinal tract is partially shut down. Therefore, severely affected horses must be rehydrated with intravenous fluids. Horses with mild or moderate dehydration can still absorb electrolytes, so electrolyte paste given here is also helpful. A commonly used protocol is to give a dose of electrolytes the night before strenuous exercise, a second dose in the morning before starting exercise, and a dose every 3-4 hours during exercise.

Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center

15275 Alder Creek Road, Truckee, Nevada County, California 96161

by Robert H. Sydnor, A.E.R.C. Trail Master & Engineering Geologist

August 2016

Introduction

In March 2012, the Tahoe Donner Association purchased a 482-acre parcel in Euer Valley for $3 million. For several decades prior, equestrians from the general public could camp in historic Euer Valley for a small fee. The Euer Valley equestrian camp was very popular all summer long. But that ended in 2012, and for the next four years, only homeowner/members of the Tahoe Donner Association could ride there. Then in Spring 2016 came a wonderful change; everyone is happy.

The good news is that the Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center is now open to the public (by advance reservations, and on a staggered fee schedule for members and non-members). For complete details, please visit their website: www.tahoedonner.com/equestrian

The equestrian reservation telephone number is: 530-587-9470 Amy Edgett is the office associate who will match young riders with the optimum rental horse, based on the prior experience and physical ability of the teenager.

Guided Horse Rides

Adults and junior riders (7+ years old and 4+ feet tall) can enjoy 1-hour or 2-hour guided trail rides on excellent calm horses with Western saddles. There are 4 wranglers that lead the rides. Riders under 18 years old must wear helmets (furnished free or bring your own). Guided rides are Wednesday through Sunday, and held at 9:00 AM, 10:30 AM, 1:30 PM, and 3:00 PM.

Pony Rides

For small children, ages 2 to 6 and weighing less than 60 pounds, pony rides are available. The duration of the ride is 30 minutes, and the small ponies are safely led at a slow walk by the parents or grandparents.

Horse Boarding

For both members and the general public, horse boarding is available (overnight, weekly, monthly). Horses are fed hay twice per day and the paddocks are cleaned. Tack rooms are available. For details, please visit their website: www.tahoedonner.com/equestrian/boarding

Ride Your Own Horse

By advance reservations, groups of up to 10 riders can bring their own horses to the Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center and ride by themselves into Euer Valley. The cost is $15 per day. Excellent free trail maps are available.

Riders must bring a typewritten and signed letter from their Veterinarian that the horse is healthy and up-to-date on all vaccinations. This is a universal and standard health requirement for all stables. You will need to sign a standard letter of release of liability.

There is no overnight camping for horse trailers with living quarters at the Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center. By advance reservations, you can board your horse, and perhaps stay at a local motel in nearby Truckee. There is a private campground on Alder Creek Road (about 3 miles away) that is operated by the Tahoe Donner Association, but horses are not allowed at that popular campground (which seldom has immediate vacancies, so book early in the Spring).

Krystal-Rae Mecham serves as the Equestrian Manager for Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center.

She has been riding horses all of her life. Krystal-Rae grew up on a ranch near Mount Lassen. Her father is a long-time member of Backcountry Horsemen of California. The Mecham Family packed with horses and mules into the Shasta-Trinity wilderness.

Krystal-Rae supervises four wranglers who lead the guided trail rides, plus other equestrian staff. She is very experienced with leading young children on their first pony ride in the forest. Her friendly and gracious leadership is the key to the success of the newly expanded Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center.

Their website has a 2½-minute safety video where she explains what new riders should know before they get into the saddle. Parents and their kids can watch this safety video at home, prior to driving to Tahoe Donner Equestrian Center.

Krystal-Rae Mecham's phone number is 530-515-4156. Be ready to leave a message, because she is often in the saddle, leading a splendid ride into the beautiful Euer Valley (but out of cell-phone range). Even better: send her an e-mail message to

KMecham@tahoedonner.com

For horseback riding reservations, please call the office associate, Amy Edgett, at 530-587-9470. Amy can also explain about other wonderful equestrian activities: Saturday night barbecues, Cowgirls and Cocktails, Pancakes and Ponies, and private equestrian lessons.

What's the difference between a horse and a matababy?

What's a matababy?

Nothing. What's the matter with you?

A man's car stalls on a country road. When he gets out to fix it, a horse in the nearby field comes up along side the fence and leans over by him. "Your trouble is probably in the carburetor," says the horse.

Startled, the man jumps back and runs down the road until he meets a farmer. He tells the farmer his story.

"Was it a large white horse with a black mark over the right eye?" asks the farmer.

"Yes, Yes," the man replies.

"Oh, I wouldn't listen to her," says the farmer, "she doesn't know anything about cars."
